

About the authors

Mihail Arandarenko is Professor of Labour Economics at Belgrade University and is also Director of the Foundation for the Advancement of Economics. He has written extensively about labour market and social policy issues and has consulted long- and short-term for many international organisations. He is, inter alia, the author of Labour Market in Serbia – Trends, Institutions, Policies (2011) and editor of Mapping Serbia's Labour Market (2006).

Valeriu Frunzaru is Senior Lecturer at the State University of Political and Administrative Studies in Bucharest, where he teaches European employment policies, sociology and research methods. He has published books and articles in scientific journals on topics within employment, education and social values.

Todor Milchevski is Lecturer in the Integrated Business Faculty in Skopje where he teaches labour economics and EU economics. His areas of expertise are employment and regional development. Previously, he was engaged in the Cabinet of the Deputy Prime Minister in charge of economic affairs, working in the field of economic policy and regulatory reform.

Damir Miljević was born in Banja Luka, Bosnia and Herzegovina. With a background in research and consultancy, he became an adviser to the Prime Minister of Republika Srpska in 2001. Since 2001, he has been working as Executive Manager for Development in MCO Sinergija Plus in Banja Luka and is currently President of the Employer Association of Republika Srpska.

Vesna Stojanova Prof. Dr. has enjoyed a 35-year career as an internationally-recognised professor and scientist and has published over 200 scientific papers and research projects, of which at least fifty have been international. Since 2011, she has been director of the Integrated Business Institute and President of the NGO Junior Achievement Macedonia (1998).

Lyuben Tomev Ph.D. has been the Director of the Institute for Social and Trade Union Research of Confederation of Independent Trade Union of Bulgaria since 1999. He also represents CITUB in the Economic and Social Council of the Republic of Bulgaria, on the Commission on Income and Living Standards of the National Tripartite Cooperation Council and is on the Managing Board of NAVET (from 2001 to 2010).

Iva Tomić is a Research Assistant in the Institute of Economics, Zagreb and a PhD candidate of the Faculty of Economics of the University of Ljubljana. Her major research interests are labour economics, applied microeconomics, demographic ageing and public finance.

Maja Vehovec PhD is Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Economics, Zagreb. Her major fields of interest are labour economics, the impacts of ageing on labour supply and longer working lives, health economics, pensions policies and financial literacy. She has also served as a consultant for institutions like the WB, OECD and DFID and as an evaluator for the European Science Foundation.